

RHIA Exam candidates:

The RHIA exam is currently in a beta test period.

This means that immediate scoring is not available. Candidates that have either already tested or will be testing during the beta test period will not receive scores until late December.

The beta test period for the RHIA will conclude in Q1, 2010, after which immediately scoring will be available to future RHIA candidates.

Finally, even though immediate scoring for the RHIA exam will not become available publicly until 2010:

- We will begin distributing score reports to all test-takers on or before the last week of December; and
- All RHIA test-takers between 12/31/09 and the date that immediate scoring goes live will receive their scores by regular mail approximately 7 – 10 days after their test date.
- Please continue to view the RHIA exam page for further updates.