Chapter 9

Real World Cases

Real-World Case 9.1

1. What steps could a privacy officer have taken to prevent this breach?

Individual responses will vary, but potential answers include: 1) in regards to prevention, shredding the PHI or otherwise rendering it unreadable (this was not done); 2) conducting staff training in regards to proper disposal; 3) requiring staff to sign agreements in regards to compliance with the HIPAA privacy rule; and 4) contracting with a reliable business associate to properly dispose of the PHI (it is not clear whether this organization used a business associate or not).

2. How would you have responded to it had it not been prevented at your organization?
Potential responses to this breach include dismissing the business associate if it was responsible for the breach, and reviewing the business associate agreement (if applicable) to ensure that all appropriate provisions were in place to safeguard the covered entity in the event of a breach by the business associate.

3. Should small healthcare organizations be charged fines for non-compliance with HIPAA? Justify your response.
Students should recommend that small healthcare organizations be charged fines when appropriate. Justification will vary but can address that the law specifically includes them and patients of small practices are impacted too.

Real-World Case 9.2

1. What could Ronnie Bogle, or any of us, do to prevent becoming a victim of medical identity theft?

There are many things that Ronnie can do. Examples are reviewing his health record and sharing private information only when necessary and with those he trusts.

2. Why should healthcare organizations be interested in financial identity theft?

Answers may vary but should include that the financial identity theft can be used for medical identity theft.

3. What impact might medical identity theft have on the patient's care?

The patient's care can be compromised. For example, if the fraudulent patient had an appendectomy, the physicians may overlook a diagnosis of appendicitis on the real patient because he or she believes the patient to have had their appendix removed.

Test Bank

25. Which of the following statements is true?

a. HIPAA preempts state law

b. State law preempts HIPAA, if stricter

c. A covered entity chooses which law to follow

d. The facility needs to consult an attorney to find out what to do

Rationale: HIPAA states that state law preempts the HIPAA privacy rule. They do not need to consult an attorney because they know the state law is stricter and therefore should abide by it.

Chapter 10
