

Lesley Clack, ScD, MS

Dr. Clack is an Assistant Professor and Member of the Health Informatics Institute at the University of Georgia College of Public Health in Athens, GA. Prior to her recent appointment at the University of Georgia, Dr. Clack served as the Health Informatics Program Coordinator at Armstrong State University in Savannah, GA. She teaches undergraduate and graduate courses across the informatics spectrum, including Introduction to Health Informatics and Healthcare Data Analytics.

Dr. Clack is actively involved with professional informatics associations. She serves as a volunteer with AHIMA on the Data Analytics Practice Council. In addition, she is a member of the University System of Georgia Health Informatics Advisory Board and serves on the Women in AMIA Academic and Career Advancement Committee for the American Medical Informatics Association.

Dr. Clack received a Doctor of Science degree in Health Systems Management from Tulane University School of Public Health and Tropical Medicine. She holds a Master of Science degree in Counseling Psychology from the University of West Alabama and a Bachelor of Science degree in Biological Science from the University of Georgia. She is actively involved in research and publication across the health informatics spectrum.