Journal of AHIMA Honored for ‘Superior Quality and Innovation’

Publication Wins Bronze Award for Highlighting the Evolving HIM Workforce

CHICAGO – April 18, 2014 – The Journal of AHIMA’s August 2013 issue highlighting and analyzing Health Information Management’s (HIM) evolving workforce earned a Bronze award in the Association Media & Publishing’s (AM&P) 2014 EXCEL competition.

The issue was honored for excellence in the category “Magazines: Single Topic Issue.”

The idea behind the August Journal was to showcase HIM’s significant changes, challenges and exciting opportunities as a result of the ongoing industry transition from paper to electronic health records (EHRs).

“For 84 years, the Journal has provided our members a monthly look at where the profession is and where it is going,” said AHIMA CEO Lynne Thomas Gordon, MBA, RHIA, CAE, FACHE, FAHIMA. “With change comes natural apprehension, but after reading the articles in the issue, it is clear there are massive, exciting opportunities that have developed alongside the advancement of EHRs and health information technology.”

The articles provide expert advice to prepare for and embrace the opportunities ahead. They feature a mix of practical workforce guidance (“Integrity of the Healthcare Record: Best Practices for EHR Documentation”), discuss the importance of continuing education (“Taking the Doctoral Challenge; Mapping the Future of HIM Education”) and provide insight into new career opportunities (“The Next HIM Frontier: Population Health Information Management Presents a New Opportunity for HIM”).

AM&P, the national membership organization serving the needs of association publishers, business operation executives, communications professionals, designers and content generators, received more than 900 entries for this year’s awards. The AM&P wrote that the Journal’s work “displayed superior quality and innovation.”

This is the eighth award the Journal has garnered in the last five years for excellence in journalism.
